

Jennifer Aniston's Engagement Ring: Estimated At $1 Million, 10 Carats

 Tue, October 9, 2012 11:39pm EST by Billy Nilles 8 Comments

Jennifer's massive rock is believed to be 10 carats, at least, and worth $1 million dollars, a jewelry expert tells HollywoodLife.com! Read on for all the details.

As we've finally caught a glimpse of Jennifer Aniston's massive engagement ring, given to her by fiancé Justin Theroux, we've begun speculating on just how big and pricy the stone is! A jewelry expert tells us that might possibly be bigger than we ever imagined!

 35

 Like

 10

 Tweet

 0

 +1

Gemology and Jewelry Expert with 14 year of experience, Anthony Sarkissian of Beverly Hills' Premier Jewelry Lenders (Voted Best of Beverly Hills), gave his expert analysis of Jennifer's ring to HollywoodLife.com.

"If this is a fine quality diamond of at least 10 carats, which it looks to be from initial photos, we could be talking about a million dollar ring here," he says says. "10 carat and over diamonds command a premium price in the diamond industry, because they are more rare than smaller diamond."

"The ring looks to be a Cushion Cut or Oval Shape diamond, mounted in a classic Halo design. It may have Micro-Pave diamonds around the center stone as well."

"Once again, [Jennifer] is a trend-setter, going with a yellow gold setting. This is a popular trend in Europe right now, but we are just starting to see it here in the States," he continues. "We will definitely be seeing a lot more of the yellow-gold style in the engagement rings world, especially with [Jennifer] setting the trend."

Are you surprised by the estimated worth of Jennifer's engagement ring, HollywoodLifers?